Tasting note

Blackberry and wild strawberry give this red plenty of ripe, generous fruit, lifted by an appealing red peppercorn spice. The palate is smooth and rich, with soft tannins and a fresh finish. Full of flavour and easy to enjoy, it makes an excellent everyday table wine.

The producer

Nekeas has a winemaking history stretching back to the 16th century. Since the 1990s, descendants of local growing families have revived the valley's vineyards, including steep slopes at 450–650 metres. Here in Navarra, Atlantic and Mediterranean influences combine with altitude to give ripe fruit and welcome freshness.

Winemaking

Garnacha and Tempranillo are fermented separately in temperature-controlled stainless steel, with around five days of maceration and two weeks of fermentation. Full malolactic fermentation softens the acidity before blending. A short period in stainless steel preserves the bright fruit, with no oak influence.

Food pairing

Tomato-based pasta, grilled sausages, roast chicken and Spanish tapas. A versatile red for midweek suppers.
