Tasting note

Bright plum and freshly picked cherry give this Malbec its generous, juicy character. The palate is smooth and rounded, with a medium body and velvety tannins that keep it approachable. Freshness balances the ripe fruit, making it an easy red for a relaxed supper or weekend barbecue.

The producer

Bodega Staphyle began in 2002, when the Porretta family restored a winery dating from the 1930s. Based in Luján de Cuyo, Mendoza, it combines that heritage with modern cellar equipment. Vineyards in Ugarteche and Agrelo supply the fruit for wines that focus on balance, character and value.

Winemaking

Malbec from Agrelo is harvested by hand and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel. Malolactic fermentation softens the acidity, while an unoaked approach keeps the plum and cherry fruit at the centre of the wine. Time in bottle allows the components to settle and come together.

Food pairing

Grilled steak, burgers, roast lamb and tomato-based pasta. Also a good match for smoky grilled vegetables.
