The producer

Bodegas Perica is a family winery in San Asensio, in the heart of Rioja Alta. Its vineyards span several local villages, including Briones and Cenicero. La Olagosa, the estate's emblematic vineyard, gives this range its name.

Winemaking

Grapes are harvested at optimum ripeness and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel. Maturation in American and Eastern European oak barrels adds spice and rounds the tannins, followed by further bottle ageing before release.

Food pairing

Roast lamb, slow-cooked beef, grilled vegetables, game or mature cheeses.
