Tasting note

Delicate acacia blossom, melon and white peach give this Prosecco its fragrant, inviting character. Fine, persistent bubbles lift a soft, velvety palate, with gentle sweetness balanced by freshness. Bright and aromatic, it makes an easy aperitif and a cheerful partner for lighter dishes.

The producer

Terre dei Buth is based in Mareno di Piave, near Treviso in Veneto. Winemaker Paolo Marion makes organic wines with an approachable, fresh style. Respect for nature shapes the estate's philosophy, with organic production and vegan-friendly wines at the heart of the range.

Winemaking

Glera is harvested in August and September, then fermented for around ten days in temperature-controlled stainless steel. The Martinotti–Charmat method creates the bubbles in pressurised tanks over 45–60 days. A dosage of 14–15 g/l gives the Extra Dry style its gentle softness.

Food pairing

Vegetable risotto, summer salads and grilled vegetables. Serve at 6–8°C, with light dishes or as an aperitif.
